

DID YOU KNOW?

“There are real schools where 8-year-olds and 80-year-olds study together in the same classroom.”

In Cleveland, Ohio, there are real intergenerational schools where children and older adults learn together in the same classroom. Students and seniors read, use computers and work on projects together, so both generations can learn from each other.