UNIDAD 1

EDUCATION, PERSONAL STORIES

UNIT I. EDUCATION, PERSONAL STORIES

INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIT

In Unit 1, you will learn useful language to communicate in everyday situations and simple negotiations. You will practice talking about daily routines, expressing rules, and explaining what people must or cannot do. You will also learn how to talk about feelings and reactions, and how to discuss advantages and disadvantages when making decisions.

In addition, you will practice telling personal stories, describing past events, announcing news, and closing conversations politely. These skills will help you to speak with more confidence and to understand others better. By the end of this unit, you will be ready to communicate your ideas clearly in different situations.

UNIT OBJETIVE

To develop students' communicative, linguistic, and social skills in English so they can interact at a basic level in different every day and academic situations. By the end of this unit, students will be able to talk about daily routines, express prohibition and obligation, share feelings and reactions, and discuss simple advantages and disadvantages. They will also learn to describe past events, announce news, close conversations politely, and tell personal stories. These abilities will help students to participate with more confidence in basic communication and in simple negotiation contexts.
