UNIT IV. HUMAN-MADE STRUCTURES AND NATURAL WONDERS

INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIT

In Unit 4, you will learn how to talk about places, natural wonders, and everyday communication situations. You will practice comparing human-made structures and describing geographical features and natural wonders in your country. This unit also helps you express disbelief, say when you do not know something, and communicate politely in different situations. In addition, you will learn how to talk about weekend plans, take and leave messages, and make requests, promises, and offers. These skills will help you communicate more clearly and manage your time more effectively in daily and academic life.

UNIT OBJETIVE

To develop students' communicative, linguistic, and social skills in English so they can interact at a basic level when talking about places, plans, and everyday communication. By the end of this unit, students will be able to compare structures, describe geographical features and natural wonders, express disbelief or lack of knowledge, talk about weekend plans, and communicate effectively by making requests, promises, offers, and managing messages. These skills support clear interaction and better organization of time in real-life situations.
