

WATER
ENVIRONMENT AND TRADITION

UNIT II

Introduction Unit II

INTRODUCTION TO THE UNIT

Welcome!

This unit introduces you to structures that are useful to talk about water and environmental subjects as well as traditions we observe in everyday life.

The following sections also have grammatical and lexical aims that have to do with Passive voice and how it is used when the attention is focused on the action.

You will also interact with structures to express purpose or give an opinion, or talk about habits and traditions.

You will review sentence structure so it is quite important to keep learning verbs, nouns and new vocabulary. For this reason, it is recommended to use extra learning sources like books, websites, magazines or others.

OBJECTIVE OF THE UNIT

By the end of the unit the student is expected to be able to handle vocabulary and grammatical structures related to the use of the passive voice, including present and past perfect passive as well as expressions of purpose and opinions.
